

MAJ (Dr.) Sean Wilkes graduated from Columbia University and New York City ROTC in 2006 and was commissioned into the Medical Service Corps. He served as an environmental engineer at U.S. Army Public Health Command, an inspector general at the Pentagon, and as commander, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 804th Medical Brigade before attending medical school at the Uniformed Services University in Bethesda Maryland. He completed residency in psychiatry and fellowship in child and adolescent psychiatry at Tripler Army Medical Center in Honolulu, Hawaii and now serves as the Division Psychiatrist for the 25th Infantry Division. He holds masters degrees in biology, biotechnology and biodefense from Harvard University and University of Maryland University College, and is appointed Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at the Uniformed Services University. He has served in SUSP leadership for three years, as Chair of Elections, Chair of Professional Medical Education, and Secretary.